I decided to build a website for my unessay, it's simple yet it shows information I was interested in. I mainly focused on the 1920s - 1940s. Mainly showcasing just how "lip trends" haven't changed.

I mainly when I'm out of the process of building the website and HTML and CSS I didn't use JavaScript because it's not supposed to be active on Google Chrome after the new year so I have a really try to implement it. I made four pages the homepage which uses a lot of photos from the old archives website which they archive every cover they have in every magazine since the very beginning I show four magazine covers from 1920 to 2 months ago which is Lizzo.

I can tell you my initial thoughts on looking at the valve covers from the 1910s to maybe early 1960s was quite shocking to see every woman in red lipstick. And just tell nearly everyone with the same. All white women mostly blonde for certain years. Brunettes for others it was typically the same trend. One thing I did enjoy was seeing the 1910s through the 1930s. Obviously this was a time where America didn't have as much money so you could see a visual change after Black Tuesday (when the market crash in 1929). It's very subtle but it's different in a way where it seems like it would save them more money. So I'm not sure if they save more money by drawing covers are taking photography but in the 1930s is when they started to take photography of women for the cover.

Back to my website I am in four pages the homepage my history page which goes over basically goes over all of my history that I mentioned that I talked about which I mainly talk about the 1920s through the 1940s. Then I have a documents page where I have this in pretty much that's it. And a small about me page just so it's my page and so I can have it it's at for educational uses so I can't be sued. I did end up using some images from websites That were not like vogue or anything because to get a vogue image it wouldn't be an actual image and it would be including a whole magazine page rather than the image itself. I'm quite proud of the page itself but there were things I wanted to do which is what took me a few extra days to do and to work out some kinks that I wanted to try out before turning it in. I ended up keeping with my original plan so I took extra days for no reason. But I'm glad I tried it out.

I hope you're able to enjoy the website and see the amount effort effort I put into it in enjoy my work. Thank you

The History of 20th Century Vintage Makeup. (2020, May 14). Retrieved November 1, 2020, from https://glamourdaze.com/history-of-makeup

Kayser, D., Agthe, M., & Maner, J. (n.d.). Strategic Sexual Signals: Women's Display versus Avoidance of the Color Red Depends on the Attractiveness of an Anticipated Interaction Partner. Retrieved October 9, 2020, from https://journals.plos.org/plosone/article?id=10.1371%2Fjournal.pone.0148501

 Palumbo, J. (2020, March 03). Empowering, alluring, degenerate? The evolution of red lipstick. Retrieved October 9, 2020, from https://www.cnn.com/style/article/red-lipstick-historybeauty/index.html

History.com Editors. (2009, October 29). World War II. Retrieved November 1, 2020, from https://www.history.com/topics/world-war-ii/world-war-ii-history

Martisiute, L. (2017, September 29). 33 American WWII Propaganda Posters That Weren't Always Politically Correct. Retrieved December 1, 2020, from https://allthatsinteresting.com/american-world-war-2-propaganda-posters

Vintage Style Clothing & Costumes. (n.d.). Retrieved November 01, 2020, from https://vintagedancer.com/.